

THE HICKMAN COURIER.

HICKMAN. KENTUCKY.

SORROW.

I would not weep because the roses die,
I do not murmur when the red leaves fall;
But when winter comes, and tempests sweep the sky,
I weep above my soup and think of her.

I have not wept, when winter blasts have howled;

Because the summer flowers were in the buds when wood sells nine dollars for a cord,

I weep, when I have not it so.

My heart has been broken by birds of spring,
With autumn's leaves and winter's flower's are dead;

I weep;

One day I wept when I played a joke;

After the other man had an old bird.

BITTER-SWEET.

A symphony of sound and light and scents. A voice of many birds twitting dexterously to each other from newly-built nests; the wind and shark-birds, the birds into leaf and blossom. Into the woodland from far below came a murmur of waves trailing on a silvery beach, and mingling with this murmur, the talk and laughter of the deer mellowed by distance. Right down through the soft green woods the birds cleaped singing and gurgling to the set.

The dim fragrance and dappled lights and pleasant sounds of the day made a three-fold joy to a young girl who stood beneath the trees in the April noon. She stood beneath the trees in the April noon.
She had drawn back a little, and the light fell about her just beyond the verge of the shadow. Round her feet were dead leaves and living flowers, and soft green full of the sweet rain that had fallen all day long. One hand she shaded her eyes, the other was uplifted to tend back a branch which had barred the open space. Her hair was blown in a brown cloud about her face, and her hazel eyes shone with a soft, joyous gleam the shading hand.

For the first time in her life she tasting that singular gladness which comes to mind and body, when alone with nature in spring, after a long illness.
To this full content of hers, all the joyless fears for to come had given way to delicious words of convelence, were but a background.

And now into her loneliness there came another human presence—a young man, carelessly whistling, treading gravely over the grass, and as he reached the river, and paused on the bank, looking at the tall, slim figure in the soft gray gown, crowned by the brown hair and wistful face. Just one moment, and sprang across the stream. Only one look, and there might have been no secession, but for his smile. Bitter-sweet, forever, but for an accented—or what we call an acerbic—which is really a strong link in many a chain of life. As his foot touched the bank he slipped on the slippery earth, straining his ankle in the fall, and sprained the joint, and lay on the ground, and braced his foot against a tree which had sprung up, and sprang across the stream. The young girl came quickly toward him. "I will run and get help," she said, and meeting his grateful look for a moment, went quickly along the path that led toward Cloverbright, the village where she and her father were staying. At a turning she met a tall scrubby-looking man.

"I was looking for you, Margaret.
Are you wise to go bacheaded, my child?" he said, anxiously.

"I am not wise, but the book, and it is so small. But, oh! papa, when I am a gentleman, I will have a book."

And she waved her hand toward the woods below. They found him faint and weak, with sunshine, and she shaped him a home in all gladness. The old red-brick house had pleasant rooms, filled with comfortable furniture, softly cushioned chairs, and low tables, and loving looks, and looking delicious baked beans on kitchen towels. As Margaret was not aesthetic, she preferred cheerful chintz and soft velvet.

Her own sanctum was a small room overlooking the garden, and furnished with a single bed, a writing-table, and a few low chairs.

At the window were white lace curtains,
and on the mantepiece a jar of Venetian glass that looked like a fragment of sun.

Now, in the garden, a great clump of flowers that varied according to the season. In spring there were primroses and violets—even a few tulips; in summer roses and mimosa; in autumn and winter ferns and mosses with perfumed dabs, and looking delicious baked beans on kitchen towels.

Margaret's husband had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her
soul, that playing at love called flirtation.
She had been a girl of some old houses
wherein mention was made of men who had died and done
other things for love; and she may have
had dreams on the subject, but filmy
and shifting.

Her father had lived alone
until he met her, and she had been a
quiet student, loving but his daughter
and his books, and so her life was full of
associations, but not of friends. None
of the bloom had been worn off her soul, that playing at love called flirt

Local Items.

Sept. 1st, Tyler, of Fulton, took in Hickman, Thursday.

Mr. Ed. Moore of Union City, was in Hickman, Wednesday, on business.

Mr. Wilson, R. Hamby, a worthy and good citizen, is a candidate for Magistrate in this District.

Mr. Ed May, of Woodland Mills, is in Hickman this week. Mr. May thinks he will go into business here.

Fortune's Drug Store will be found open on Sundays "to sell Drugs or Medicines only," from 8 to 11, a.m. and 2 to 7 p.m.

Some farmers who are now paying 18 cents for bacon, might profitably make a note of the fact, and raise their own meat after this.

Miss Minnie Hogland, beautiful and accomplished young lady of our city, left Thursday morning for Union City, where she will visit friends.

Messrs. Davis & Stankard have taken charge of the Union City Anchor. We wish them great success, for the Anchor is an excellent paper.

Messrs. Davis and Will Young have a nice confectionery and grocery establishment, on Clinton street. Give them a call, and we will tell you what they have.

We do not want your vote, but we do want your trade, and if you drugs, or medicines, and reasonable prices are an inducement, we hope to get your trade.

T. P. FORTUNE & CO.

Mr. John Roper's name should be added to the list of candidates in the Hickman district for Justice of the Peace. We omitted his name last week simply because we had not heard of his candidacy. He is an excellent man, and would make an upright magistrate.

RELIGIOUS NOTICES—We are authorized to announce that there will be no religious services at the Methodist church next Sunday morning or night, the pastor, Rev. Mr. King, being absent attending District Conference at Troy.

Services at the Episcopal church, morning and evening, at the usual hours.

C. Hugblote Wilson, candidate for County Judge, will speak at the Kentucky School House, Madrid Bend, July 31; McFadden's School House, August 3rd, at 7:30 a.m.; and on the same day at Alexandria at 3 p.m.; Ebenezer Church, Aug. 4th, 9:30 a.m.; and at Rush Creek Church the same day at 3 p.m. Other candidates invited.

The County canvass has grown ex citing and earnest. We beg the friends to keep calm and cool. Let them fight earnestly if they will, but be careful to say nothing that will cause a sore place after the election. Some as good and as capable men will be among the defeated as those who may be elected, so in any event you will be in good company.

MOONLIGHT PIC NIC AND DANCE—Some citizens of East Hickman, propose giving a moonlight pic-nic and dance in the beautiful grove on the hill, next Wednesday night. The Hickman cornet band and a splendid string band have been engaged to furnish music for the occasion. All are invited. The East Hickman people are never exceeded in such entertainments when they undertake them.

One week more and the packet will start up Salt River freighted with the defeated candidates. By common consent the next best for County Judge will be placed in command, and the next best for County Clerk will be first clerk, and other positions distributed according to votes, the defeated Magistrates and Candidates falling in as deck hands and route hands.

ARRESTED FOR STEALING.—A young Tennessean by the name of Gray, sailing from near Stone's Ferry, Ohio county, Tenn., was arrested Wednesday night, in Hickman, just as he was about to board the City of Helena, on the charge of stealing $240 in gold from a Mr. Long, also a farmer in the neighborhood of Stone's Ferry. The young man when accused by Mr. Long of stealing his money proposed to give it up if they would let him go, and he did afterwards give up the $240 in gold pieces, but was condemned to jail instead of being set free. Thursday morning young Gray agreed to accompany his captors back to Tennessee, not troubling them to secure a requisition. Mr. Long says Gray had been employed on his farm, and enjoyed his full confidence. He (Long) kept his money in a bureau drawer to which Gray had free access. Monday last the money and Gray both turned up missing, and Gray was easily tracked to Hickman, where he was arrested and the money found on his person. The young man is most likely good for a term in the penitentiary.

For Rent.

One Dwelling House, three rooms and porch, in West Hickman.
One Dwelling House, two rooms, porch and kitchen, in West Hickman.
J. D. STEPHENS.

A Card.

Ms. Editor:—Retiring from the bakery and confectionery business in Hickman, I desire to return my sincere thanks to the public and my customers in particular, for past favors, and beg a continuance of favor for my successor.
Louis KAYSER.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

HICKMAN, KY., July 24, 1882.
Council met. Present, Mayor Paris, councilmen Cowgill, Corman, French and Ramage.

The minutes of the last meeting were read, approved and signed.

GRANT WORK.

The City Clerk presented the street pay roll for the past weeks, $55.75.

On motion, ordered that a check be issued to R. E. Miller, for the sum of

On motion, ordered that he be assigned to A. A. Paris, assignee W. Henderson for post, $8.00.

ELECTION ORDERED.

On motion, it is hereby ordered that a election be held in the City Hall in the city of Hickman, on Monday, the 7th day of August, 1882, to elect a City Marshal, and Judge of the City Court, and the following officers are appointed to hold the same: J. Kirkpatrick and R. M. Miller, City Commissioners; and R. E. Miller, Clerk.

CEMETERY LOT.

On motion, the City Clerk is hereby directed to make a deed to the J. O. F. for the south half of City Cemetery lot No. 50.

On motion Council adjourned.

R. E. MILLER, C. C.

The Record Issue.

ROMANTIC MARRIAGE.

The Daughter of a Wealthy Baltimore Liquor-Dealer Wedded to a Police Officer.

BALTIMORE, MD., July 18.—The following announcement appeared in a morning paper this morning:

WATKINS, OF NEW YORK.—On the 17th Inst. the Rev. Samuel Shadrack Millard F. Watkins and Mary Catherine Fowey, both of Baltimore City, Md.

There is quite an interesting story connected with this announcement, which is as follows: The gossip of the popular houses of the Northwestern division, where the bride and bridegroom were married, and which proves conclusively that the lot of a policeman, although hard times, can be happy as that of any other man. The happy bridegroom is the present manager of a large and popular hotel of the Northwestern division, whose reputation of steadiness and close attention to duty is second to that of no other officer on the force. About one year ago he was promoted to the position he now occupies, and was detailed work on Pennsylvania avenue. Within a few doors of the point at which his beat ended and where he generally met the sergeant of Miss Katie Fowey, the daughter of a wealthy brewer, who had been a member of the police force for many years, was known throughout very young in years, had already met several admirers, and not a few would have gladly taken her for better or worse. Officer Watkins paid the house every evening with his salary, and made some time to go to make it appear that only left $186.25 on hand, to say nothing as to the propriety of his using the money to pay his own way before maturity, instead of making cash payments for work, and thereby cheapening the cost to the country.

Respectfully, J. H. MONTGOMERY.

To the Voters of Fulton County.

In the card that will appear in the Courier of this week, Judge Montgomery does not endeavor to sustain the statements heretofore made by him that there was only two persons in office, and the offices of the Sheriff and Clerk were vacant.

He makes an effort to bolster that by relying upon the certificate of the Clerk, in which it is stated that at the time there should have been in the hands of the Sheriff and Clerk $880.00.

It is nowhere shown or stated that there was not amount or any other amount at that time in the hands of the Sheriff.

Now, the simple truth is this, and the most probable is that, if there was not more made with the Sheriff in 1878, than the year I went into office, because of the prevalence of the yellow fever, and the Sheriff was allowed by the Magistrates until March, 1879, to make his settlement. So the Judge is mistaken when he says that there was a larger surplus in the Sheriff's hands when he went out of office, and I went into office. If the Judge will take to the last sentence of his certificate, he will find that the county was then in debt $1,052.41, the next settlement, and first one after I came into office, March 1879, the county was out of debt, and had paid off all debts, and there was a surplus over of $186.25.

The Judge endeavors to show that there was money on hand, and that the money left with the Sheriff was partly paid out and given to the sheriff, but he does not give any particulars in advance. But it is positively stated that the Magistrates never allowed me, or any other officer any amount in advance of what was due, and if they had done so, they, and not I, would be responsible, as they are the ones that paid all claims and debts of the county. The sheriff and all other debts of the county, and the Sheriff paid off all the debts of the course to be paid up to the date of the settlement, including suits to myself, Mrs. Watson and the wife of Capt. Erhart, and all his debts, and it left a surplus as stated of $186.25. For the truth of the above, I invite all interested to the Records, and now I say to all my friends, rally to the polls on the 7th day of August next, and listen to me flying reported victory is ours.

H. C. BAILEY.

County Board of Health.

Louisville, KY., July 20th, 1882.

To A. A. Paris:

I regret any sort of mistake or misunderstanding—my book explains it—in copying names the clerk put your name down as Harris. It will erase and spell better. Recognizing you as President of the Board for Fulton, I hereby request the entire Board for two years A. A. Paris, H. A. Tyler, Geo. Warren, Charles Miles, Newton Faschel. It is not necessary to make fresh commissions I hope the old Board will continue. I am obliged for your letter.

Very truly, JOHN J. SEED.

Improvements.

Hertweck, Baltzer & Co. new factory building is about completed, and the new machinery arriving. The working men are busily engaged putting up the shafting, and the expectation is that steam will be raised and work in the new factory commenced regularly about the 15th of August.

Our friends, Powell & Bro., are still pushing to improve and perfect their already splendid flour mill. Mr. W. D. Powell left for St. Louis Tuesday morning to buy several additional machines. This firm is laboring to build up the finest flour mill ever erected in this section, and we trust they may receive the encouragement of our farmers and business men.

ARRESTED FOR STEALING.—A young Tennessean by the name of Gray, sailing from near Stone's Ferry, Ohio county, Tenn., was arrested Wednesday night, in Hickman, just as he was about to board the City of Helena, on the charge of stealing $240 in gold from a Mr.

Long, also a farmer in the neighborhood of Stone's Ferry.

The young man when accused by

Mr. Long of stealing his money proposed to give it up if they would let him go, and he did afterwards give up the $240 in gold pieces, but was condemned to jail instead of being set free. Thursday morning young Gray agreed to accompany his captors back to Tennessee, not troubling them to secure a requisition.

Mr. Long says Gray had been em ployed on his farm, and enjoyed his full confidence. He (Long) kept his money in a bureau drawer to which

Gray had free access.

Monday last the money and Gray

both turned up missing, and Gray was easily tracked to Hickman, where he was arrested and the money found on his person. The young man is most likely good for a term in the penitentiary.

ONE CARD.

Ms. Editor:—Retiring from the bakery and confectionery business in

Hickman, I desire to return my sincere thanks to the public and my customers in particular, for past favors, and beg a continuance of favor for my successor.

Louis KAYSER.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

HICKMAN, KY., July 24, 1882.

Council met. Present, Mayor Paris, councilmen Cowgill, Corman, French and Ramage.

The minutes of the last meeting were read, approved and signed.

GRANT WORK.

The City Clerk presented the street pay roll for the past weeks, $55.75.

On motion, ordered that a check be issued to R. E. Miller, for the sum of

On motion, ordered that he be assigned to

A. A. Paris, assignee W. Henderson

for post, $8.00.

ELECTION ORDERED.

On motion, it is hereby ordered that a

election be held in the City Hall in the city of Hickman, on Monday, the 7th day of August, 1882, to elect a City

Marshal, and Judge of the City Court, and the following officers are appointed to hold the same: J. Kirkpatrick and R.

M. Miller, City Commissioners; and R.

E. Miller, Clerk.

CEMETERY LOT.

On motion, the City Clerk is hereby directed to make a deed to the J. O.

F. for the south half of City Cemetery

lot No. 50.

On motion Council adjourned.

R. E. MILLER, C. C.

Yellow Jack.

NO INDICATIONS OF THE FEVER'S APPEARANCE THIS SEASON—NEW ORLEANS IS AN EXCEP-TIONALLY HEALTHY STATE.

[Chicago Tribune.]

N. Y., July 18.—This city was never in such perfect sanitary condition

as this, and the health is excellent.

WATKINS, OF NEW YORK.—On the 17th Inst. the Rev. Samuel Shadrack Millard F. Watkins and Mary Catherine Fowey, both of Baltimore City, Md.

There is quite an interesting story connected with this announcement, which is as follows: The gossip of the popular houses of the Northwestern division, where the bride and bridegroom were married, and which proves conclusively that the lot of a policeman, although hard times, can be happy as that of any other man. The happy bridegroom is the present manager of a large and popular hotel of the Northwestern division,

THE HICKMAN COURIER

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY BY GEORGE WARREN,
HICKMAN, KENTUCKY.

TUESDAY, JULY 28, 1882

Short communications on public questions printed—but not responsible for sentiments or expressions of correspondents—except where we refuse to give name of author.

A. H. Stevens is the Democratic nominee for Governor of Georgia.

The meeting of the Paducah Racing Association occurs Aug. 15, 16 and 17. Venor says we are to have a rainy July, a stormy August, and a fair, frosty September.

Ilon. Bernard Neale, is reported dangerously ill, at Fort Smith, Ark., with erysipelas.

The Tennessee candidates for Congress speak at Union City, August 19th; at Troy the 22nd; and at Tiptonville the 24th.

Nashville has arranged for a National competitive drill, to take place in that city in May next, and will offer $6,000 in prizes.

Senator Fair says he has a house in Virginia City that cost him $50,000 that would not now sell for $1,000, so stagnated business there.

David Campbell, Jr., died near Wilsonville, Ohio, County, on the 19th. We extend to the bereaved our kindest sympathy, in their sore dispensation.

The Tennessee Matrimonial Associations are "benignous societies," as the Attorney General of that State decides, but they have not always turned out that way in other places.

Barnes, the evangelist, is not meeting with great success in Dayton, Ohio. A correspondent writes to an Ohio paper that the people of Dayton are at a loss to determine whether Barnes is a crack or a messenger from Christ. They think he uses too much slang.

A general improvement in the business of the country is foreshadowed by the operations in Wall street, New York. An abundant harvest is assured, which is putting all the agencies of business into active motion, and will give labor to the industrious and a fair reward to toil.

A St. Louis boy drank milk without taking the cover of tobacco out of his mouth. The milk washed the tobacco down his throat and he died of nicotine Cooper's son in law.

The grain markets are weaker, as is usually the case when stocks are booming. The fact is, it is the crops in this country were never more promising than now, and the prospect for a heavy fall and winter harvest is being realized. Only one of the most persistent boom can point to this as the least discouraging corn, and the shortage in the sections where the crop was injured by the heavy rains is likely to be more than overcome by the production of the more favored districts.

Wire has been stretched across the Mississippi river at Belmont, from the mouth of the river to the highland of Columbus, Ky., which works well. All boats pass under the wire missing them several feet. The telegraph company thinks it will be much better and cheaper to keep us than to pay for it.

Law.—Since the above was set in type information reaches us to the effect that the workmen have made a failure and the old cable will have to be fixed up and used. Considerable time and money was spent on it just before the project was decided impossible.

The idea of executing the Smith law closing liquor saloons on Sundays has been fully abandoned by the pro-court in Cincinnati. The officers of the court made every effort to enforce the law. They caused the arrest of about four hundred violators of the law and brought enough of them to trial to ascertain what would be done. It was empannelled which would not contain one or more jurors who would not stand out to the last for a verdict of not guilty.—[Lexington Transcript.]

It is difficult to enforce any law against public sentiment.

We have ever endeavored to create a friendly feeling between Union City and Hickman, and we trust and are satisfied that the present unpleasantness will have no weight in deterring us in the accomplishment of our desire.—[Union City Anchor.]

Nicely enough there will be some rivalry between Union City and Hickman, base ball clubs, tradesmen, &c., but in the broad sense the two towns are great auxiliaries to each other. One of these towns can not prosper to any great extent without the other sharing its prosperity to some degree. The man manufacturing establishments at Hickman help those of Union City, precisely like the congregation of factitious in any one city help each other. The proximity of the two places links their interest together as to any great prosperity or misfortune. The cholera epidemic at Union City some years ago incidentally injured Hickman as a healthy locality, precisely like the yellow fever epidemic at Hickman incidentally hurt Union City from the same view. We have ever found the people of Union City pushing, enterprising, generous and magnanimous, and may each and every one of them "live long and prosper." Both places are prospering, and can afford to be liberal and generous. So, neighbor, let the base-ballists, brass bands, &c., rivel each other to their mutual limit, and let each "banquet" crow loud and long on his own heap—it don't hurt. The same rivals would turn and fight for each other if necessary.

The War.

The prospects of a European war growing out of the English-Egyptian trouble appear to grow less each day. The Egyptians are not able to fight England without aid from other powers, or without being able to excite help from a Mohammedan people in defense of their religion. The other sections of Europe are quiescent, and appear willing to stand by and see England thrash Egypt as soundly as she pleases; and as for the Mahomedans rallying to the religious standard that appears to be a humbug. The indications are that the Egyptians will keep up a guerrilla warfare for some months, and then finally surrender to the Khedive, which is the same as surrendering to England.

From a humanitarian view the avoidance of war is cheering. From a selfish view that of its effects on the price of grain, in this country, there is no encouragement for better prices.

Our Rovdy Congress.

The daily papers give full reports of a disgraceful quarrel between representatives Hewitt, (Dem.) and Robeson, (Rep.) Such scenes have been frequent this session.

Air. Hewitt, of New York, waited patiently for Mr. Robeson to show up his sly trick in putting into a speech several days ago (when the Navy bill was up) some very mean remarks about Mr. Hewitt. It amounted to saying that Mr. Hewitt had taken no stand on statements, both of these were being used, and Mr. Hewitt had taken the precaution to examine the stenographer's notes to find out what the other prints had done, and then proceeded to show up his sly trick in putting into a speech several days ago (when the Navy bill was up) some very mean remarks about Mr. Hewitt.

"General, would you like to be over in Egypt to aid in the suppression of Arabi Bey?"

A sly twinkle came in the old warrior's eye as he replied:

"Not a bit of it. I have had war to my full satisfaction. Besides, Arabi Bey is not worth the attention of a man." (With an emphasis on the man.) "If I cared to fight any more battles, I would not care to fight with men of his stamp. He is nothing more nor less than a marplot, and while he may be able to carry on a sort of guerrilla warfare for a few months, his ultimate overthrow is certain, and England and France will control affairs in Egypt, with the Khedive as the nominal head of the Government."

"Then how would you like to be back in Turkey to advise the Sultan that his sore need?"

"I have no desire to become the advisor of such a weak man as the Sultan of Turkey."

LONGSTREET.

His Estimate of Some Noted Egyptian Leaders.

Gen. James Longstreet, U. S. Marshal of Georgia, has just been interviewed by the reporter of the Atlanta Constitution, with the following results:

"General, would you like to be over in Egypt to aid in the suppression of Arabi Bey?"

A sly twinkle came in the old warrior's eye as he replied:

"Not a bit of it. I have had war to my full satisfaction. Besides, Arabi Bey is not worth the attention of a man." (With an emphasis on the man.) "If I cared to fight any more battles, I would not care to fight with men of his stamp. He is nothing more nor less than a marplot, and while he may be able to carry on a sort of guerrilla warfare for a few months, his ultimate overthrow is certain, and England and France will control affairs in Egypt, with the Khedive as the nominal head of the Government."

"Then how would you like to be back in Turkey to advise the Sultan that his sore need?"

"I have no desire to become the advisor of such a weak man as the Sultan of Turkey."

LONGSTREET'S CRIMON.

"You do not seem to have a very high opinion of the folks over there."

"Indeed, I have not. The Sultan is weak and accustomed to his ease in time of peace; now that war comes, will he do any one for advice, and although originally he might not despise the American Minister, he perhaps would do so now. But Mr. Wallace is not the man to give him the advice that he stands in need of."

"What do you think of the causes of the war?"

"I think that the master of England and France's interference is not the true bottom of the trouble. Or rather it is misunderstood. They have a feeling over there that is very strong, that the association is very wise, and that the people—especially the English—will be very useful to them in the world—but they want to keep their country to themselves, more on account of their religion than anything else. They are not good Christians, and they have a preoccupation of an interference with their religious institutions, and that feeling is the true bottom of the whole thing, and not the matter of the finances of Egypt except in the indirect way that it might operate."

ARABI BEY'S MOLLOWING.

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of Arabi Bey?"

"He has doubtless a very large following, but his took the wrong road, and is not the right road to command the forces under him. He is no organizer. His movements lately have demonstrated that he cannot wage successful warfare. He will go down to defeat, and he will be easily taken care of."

"What do you think of the following of